Walking Dusty

Gathering at the Crist's

To be completely honest, Sunday was one of the most impactful "church services" I've ever experienced in my life. I had a great time with Seth's hedge trimmer- almost too great of a time!

On a serious note, what a privilege it is for us to stand by a family who serves all of us so faithfully and is going through a whirlwind of a time right now. It was wonderful to see our Mosaic body using their unique abilities to accomplish everything from power washing to washing DJ's high chair; constructing a ridiculous bunk bed (can't wait to see the look on Kadan's face when he sees that) to cleaning out flower beds; and much more, all united around the hope that our work would provide just a little slice of peace in a time of chaos.

It was real, it was from the heart.

It was a joy, it wasn't a burden.

It wasn't a show, it was natural.

It was the church being the church!

Many Scriptures were fulfilled yesterday- and we didn't really open the Scriptures!

Our God is powerful!

What Satan intends to use for evil, God flips the script and uses for good.

Thank you all.

Crists, we love you, appreciate you, and thank you for being who you are!
